

First GI House Nearly Ready For Occupancy

Commissioners Have Plans for Others To Be Built

With one of the GI houses being erected by the county commissioners, virtually completed, and another under roof, the commissioners said Monday they were working on plans so that the remaining four houses could be built as soon as Contractor Walter H. Haines could get to them.

The first two houses are being built on lots purchased on Broadway, but whether any, or some of the remaining four houses will be built on property purchased on Elm Street, has not been decided, it was stated by the commissioners at their Monday session.

It will be recalled that no permit would be granted for the four houses because they did not comply with the zoning ordinance which required much more ground for each house than was available on the Elm Street tract. Applications for the six houses being constructed for veterans have been received from 35 veterans and their families so far, the Veterans' Service Center announced Monday.

Although it was expected that the first of these houses would be ready for occupancy by this time, installation of the plumbing has been delayed and it was not known when the house would be finished. When the house is completed, the Soldiers' Relief Commission will decide which of the applicants is most eligible. The other houses will be completed within the next few months, it was indicated.

A spokesman for the Soldiers' Relief Commission pointed out that with so many more applications than houses, a great many worthy veterans will probably be disappointed. It was also stated that the county commissioners will probably have another coat of paint put on the houses and the interior painted or papered.

These houses are being built by the county with $18,500 money given for the purpose by the state.

Autos In Crash; Several Hurt

Parked Car Struck Near Staunton

Sheriff Orland Hays was called to near the intersection of the Buena Vista road with U. S. 62, eight miles southwest of Washington C. H. Sunday night about 9:30 P. M. as result of an automobile driven by Floyd Wilson, this city, crashing into an auto parked on the traveled surface of the road, and containing Paul Monroe, wife and baby daughter, of Alexander, R. I.

The Monroe auto was parked with lights burning, but Wilson said he was blinded by lights of an approaching car and did not see the parked car until within a few feet of it. He was traveling about 45 miles an hour at the time he told Sheriff Hays. Both vehicles were badly damaged.

Mrs. Monroe sustained bad contusions about her face. Monroe was painfully hurt, and the baby, asleep on the back seat, was not injured badly.

Winfield Hatfield, 16 and Virgil Wilson, 14, with Wilson at the time, sustained painful but not serious injuries.

Whooping Cough Breaks Out Here

With an unusually large number of whooping cough cases reported in the county to the health department here, Dr. Brent A. Welch, county health commissioner, warned parents to see that their children do not come in contact with those who have the disease and to properly confine those who have the disease.

Dr. Welch pointed out that whooping cough can be fatal and is particularly dangerous to children under two. There is no city or county ordinance calling for official health department quarantine of whooping cough and therefore, protection is up to the parents, Dr. Welch said.

The only diseases covered by the state quarantine laws are such major diseases as scarlet fever, of which there are now three cases in the city and county, diphtheria and infantile paralysis. There are no ordinances to cover quarantine of measles, whooping cough or chicken pox, he said.

Just Another Warning

With a national holiday weekend near at hand with its many probable dangers and hazards and its pitfalls for the careless, many people will feel that continued warnings as to being cautious on such weekends are wasted. We are not inclined to agree with this view.

A word of warning may fall on many deaf ears but maybe here and there some one will think and act accordingly. Who knows but that much property damage and many personal accidents or deaths may be avoided if just a little thinking is done by some people.

The coming weekend will find thousands and thousands of motor vehicles grinding along the highways and byways next Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Swimming spots will be crowded. Boating on nearby lakes and streams will be popular. Regardless of any regulations against them there will be a limited supply of fireworks getting into the pattern of celebrations.

Again and again no harm can come from repeated and renewed pleas to "be careful" to those who find themselves engaging in some form of celebration or recreation on Independence Day and the Saturday and Sunday following.

We should all remember that the holiday was originally set aside to perpetuate in our minds the signing of the Declaration of Independence, not to see how much "Cain" we can raise or how much of a "wild" good time we can have during that period.

Dewey and Blaine

That Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York is a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, is hardly news. Almost as well advertised is the fact that the Republicans have never renominated a defeated candidate. The argument is then advanced. "What has been, will be," which would give Dewey no chance.

There was one case, however, when the Republicans were anxious to rename their defeated nominee of four years before. In the '80's James G. Blaine of Maine was the party idol. Twice almost nominated, he made the grade in 1884, only to lose the election to Grover Cleveland. When the 1888 convention approached, Blaine could have had the nomination for the asking. His party enemies had become silent, and no other candidates had more than local support. All that was needed was Blaine's own consent, but that was lacking. Always anxious over his own health and chagrined over the widespread bolt that had beaten him in 1884, Blaine refused to try again. All efforts to move him failed, and finally his friends reluctantly adopted his suggestion that they choose Benjamin Harrison.

The supposed Republican precedent of never wishing to renominate a loser, has therefore not always operated. Dewey, however, is not so clearly head of the party as Blaine was; he may find the 1948 going hard.

The Parking Problem

Parking troubles might soon be ended if it were not for the neighborhood business man. This was the conclusion of Robert Moses, New York City park commissioner,

When an elevator is crowded, a man should step out quickly, in his turn. This is more considerate and less awkward than to block those behind him to let a lady go first.

Today's Horoscope

A birthday anniversary today means that you are self-reliant and confident in your abilities. You are much interested in and sensitive to art and artistic surroundings. You acquire knowledge easily and can impart it to others, a rare gift. You would make an excellent teacher. Today's influences are adverse. Only trust the tried and true. Do not expect something for nothing. Change of some sort will probably be necessary. Varied influences will operate during your next year, indicating business success and beneficial changes and travel in connection therewith; also some disappointment in love or marriage. Today's child will be affectionate, sympathetic, humane, inspirational, and moderately fortunate, but likely to have some love troubles.

after investigation of the New Orleans traffic situation. He remarked:

"Hotel men, merchants, real estate and theatre interests in the congested district want all the profits and none of the penalties of congestion. They want more people and less crowds, more cars and less traffic, more control and less regulation, firm administration, but nothing irksome that will drive business out of town. It's a swell stunt if you can do it."

All over the country local officials, of course, hear the clamor of business men who cry that street parking bans would ruin them. But the zoning committee of one city suburb believes that it has found an answer.

Its proposed new zoning code prohibits all street parking in business sections. Instead, merchants are to provide off-the-street parking facilities in specified amounts. A store, for instance, must maintain one car space for each 250 feet of floor area in the store itself; theatres, churches, and other assembly centers must maintain one parking space for every six seats within the building. Furthermore, all loading and unloading will have to be carried on away from the street.

That's one possible solution. But many built-up cities will find it hard to provide the vacant space for parking or to meet other such regulations. Perhaps the only real solution would be a parking-dictator—and then nobody would like the results.

Is Mom To Blame?

Mom is partly responsible for the Russian conquest of Eastern Europe. This unpalatable conclusion is the gist of remarks made by Supreme Court Justice Robert M. Jackson at the Dartmouth College commencement.

Why did the war-weary and demoralized Europeans turn to Russia, he asks. Because the Russians kept their occupying armies in those countries, providing a solid framework for government, while the United States withdrew its forces as fast as it could, thus greatly weakening its influence.

The withdrawal undoubtedly was due in large measure to the clamor raised by service men who wanted to return home, and relatives in the United States who wanted them back. After five years in the armed forces, men wanted no further part of service life. Neither did the home folks. Their attitude was: "What if peace isn't firmly established, who cares? We want to go home."

And so the very love of peace and home which is characteristic of Americans probably has helped to delay, possibly even to frustrate entirely a firm and lasting peace. It's a sad commentary on the state of the world. But one thing is clear—it's unfair to blame the government, now, for troubles brought on by giving the public what it demanded after victory.

A Letter from Washington

By Jane Eads

WASHINGTON—Prince Nawaf bin Aziz Al Saud of Saudi Arabia, the 17th of King Ibn Saud's 35 sons, has been handled with the velvet gloves of diplomacy in Washington, although he was a bobby-soxer's high-provoker and autograph-signer when he visited a public school in Queens, New York, the other day.

No bobby-soxers were invited to the parties given in his honor by the Saudi Arabian Minister, Sheikh Asad Al-Faqih, at the legation here.

One of the parties was a formal stag dinner for 24. The other was an afternoon garden party for 200, where ice cream soda, which the Saudi Arabians love, highlighted the delicacies served.

In New York, the long-lashed, brown-eyed, 14-year-old prince stayed at the Waldorf-Astoria, saw the sights and went to movies.

In the capital the legation declined to say where he and Foreign Minister Zuraiqi and two personal attendants, who accompanied him from Jeddah, the capital of Saudi Arabia, were lodging.

The young prince made quite a hit at the high school in New York. He wore a long, brown, cape-like outer garment, called an abba, richly bordered with gold, and a white headdress, called a gutra held with thick gold rope. On his feet he wore American oxfords and American socks. And, it being a bit chilly, he wore a pin-striped American suit jacket under the abba.

The girls who swarmed around him at the school—much to his bewilderment—were bobby-sox wearing. He wore his picture taken with them. The prince's school also got in

Diet and Health

Healthy, Sparkling Teeth

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

SMILES of the movie stars should have convinced the teen-ager crowd that beautiful, well-cared-for teeth are a real asset. Yet with all of this, they seem not to realize that the teeth have no more power to withstand constant abuse than any other part of the body. In fact, according to Dr. Bernard B. Alter of Bronxville, New York, it is necessary to follow certain rules if the teeth are to be kept strong and free from decay.

Now, let's see which of these rules our boys and girls are most likely to break and what happens when they do.

Many youngsters get into the habit of using their teeth to do things for which they were not made. For example, they use the teeth to open a bobby pin, open a bottle, crack nuts, chew on pencils, or bite sewing thread.

Hurts Two Ways

These things hurt the teeth in two ways. First, pieces of enamel are chipped off, making the teeth uneven. Second, these chipped-off spaces leave the teeth open to decay because the germs can get into the tooth and produce infection.

It seems generally agreed that an excess of sweets is bad for the teeth. These sweets seem to set up conditions in the mouth which favor the growth of certain types of germs which are acid-producing. It has been shown definitely that in such cases tooth decay is more likely to occur. Furthermore, the excess sweets interfere with the diet so that other necessary foods are not taken. Thus, not only is tooth decay more likely to occur, but the general health also may be affected.

Replacing Teeth

If a tooth is lost, it should be replaced without delay. If this is not done, the teeth shift out of their proper position. This not only ruins the shape of the jaw and the face but also places unusual pressure on the teeth causing them to become loosened and pockets form around the teeth into which the germs gain entrance, and eventually many of the teeth are lost. If the teeth are not in a good position, there is an improper bite, and the teeth should be straightened by the use of proper braces. Of course, the dentist must be consulted concerning these matters, and he will advise as to when the teeth-straightening process should be started.

It is important that the diet is kept well-balanced, containing all of the necessary vitamins, minerals, and proteins; the latter from such foods as milk, meat, eggs and whole-grain cereals.

Of course all persons should make regular visits to the dentist at least twice a year so that any decay in the teeth may be discovered and properly cared for.

BERN — (AP) — Effective July 1, drivers of foreign motor vehicles entering Switzerland or Liechtenstein must carry liability insurance.

Drivers of incoming automobiles are to be charged three francs at the frontier to defray the cost of collective liability insurance. From these funds the Swiss federal government through an insurance company, will pay personal and property damages inflicted by foreign automobiles.

In lieu of the three francs, the driver may present a liability insurance policy written by a company doing business in Switzerland.

The insurance will not cover claims of the foreign driver himself.

The HOLLOW

SYNOPSIS

Elderly Lady Lucy Angkatell discussed the problem of catering the incompatible group of guests she had invited to The Hollow for the coming week-end with young Midge Hardcastle, a distant relative. Outside of attractive Dr. John Christow and Gerua, his incredibly dull wife, the others were all members of the Angkatell clan: kindly Henrietta Saverne, successful sculptress; serious-minded young David Angkatell, university student; and quiet Edward Angkatell, whose unrequited love of Henrietta blinded him to the charms of Midge, what he adored him since childhood. Meanwhile, in her London studio, Henrietta was in the throes of completing her latest masterpiece—the blind Nausicaa. The search for just the right model had been long and arduous.

CHAPTER THREE

THERE WAS a blind look in Henrietta's own eyes as she walked. She saw nothing of what was around her. She was straining—straining the whole time to make that face come nearer. . . . She felt sick, ill, miserable.

And then, suddenly, her vision had cleared and with normal human eyes she had seen opposite her in the bus which she had boarded absent-mindedly and with no interest in its destination—she had seen—yes, Nausicaa!

A foreshortened childish face, half parted lips and eyes—lovely, vacant, blind eyes.

The girl rang the bell and got out; Henrietta followed her.

She was now quite calm and businesslike. She had got what she wanted—the agony of baffled search was over.

"Excuse me for speaking to you. I'm a professional sculptor and, to put it frankly, your head is just what I have been looking for."

She was friendly, charming and compelling, as she knew how to be when she wanted something.

Doris Sanders had been doubtful, alarmed, flattered.

"Well, I don't know, I'm sure. If it's just the head. Of course, I've never done that sort of thing!"

Suitable hesitations delicate financial inquiry.

"Of course, I should insist on your accepting the proper professional fee."

And so here was Nausicaa, sitting on the platform, enjoying the idea of her attractions being immortalized (though not liking very much the examples of Henrietta's work which she could see in the studio) enjoying also the revelation of her personality to a listener whose sympathy and attention seemed to be so complete.

On the table beside the model were her spectacles—the spectacles that she put on as seldom as possible, owing to vanity, preferring to feel her way almost blindly sometimes, since she admitted to Henrietta that without them she was so short-sighted that she could hardly see a yard in front of her.

Henrietta had noticed comprehension. She understood now the physical reason for that blank and lovely stare.

Time went on. Henrietta suddenly laid down her modeling tools and stretched her arms widely.

"All right," she said, "I've finished. I hope you're not too tired!"

"Oh, no, thank you, Miss Saverne. It's been very interesting. I'm sure. Do you mean it's really done—so soon?"

Henrietta laughed.

"Oh, no, it's not actually finished. I shall have to work on it quite a bit. But it's finished as far as you're concerned. I've got what I wanted—built up the planes."

The girl came down from the platform. She put on her spectacles and at once the blind innocence and vague confiding charm of the face vanished. There remained now an easy, cheap prettiness.

She came to stand by Henrietta and look at the clay model.

"Oh," she said doubtfully, dis-appointment in her voice, "it's not very like me, is it?"

Henrietta smiled.

"Oh, no, it's not a portrait."

There was indeed hardly a likeness at all. It was the setting of the eyes—the line of the cheekbone—that Henrietta had seen as the essential keynote of her conception of Nausicaa. This was not Doris Sanders; it was a blind girl about whom a poem could be made.

The lips were parted as Doris were parted, but they were not Doris lips. They were the lips that would speak another language and would utter thoughts that were not Doris' thoughts—

None of the features were clearly defined. It was Nausicaa remembered, not seen.

"Well," said Miss Sanders doubtfully, "I suppose it'll look better when you've got on with it a bit. . . . And you really don't want me any more?"

"No, thank you," said Henrietta. ("And thank God I don't!" said her inner mind.) "You've been simply splendid. I'm grateful."

She got rid of Doris expertly and returned to make herself some black coffee. She was tired—she was horribly tired. . . . But happy—happy and at peace.

"Thank goodness," she thought, "now I can be a human being again."

And at once her thoughts went to John.

John, she thought. Warmth crept into her cheeks, a sudden quick lifting of the heart made her spirits soar.

Tomorrow, she thought, I'm going to The Hollow. . . . I shall see John.

She sat quite still, sprawled back on the divan, drinking down the hot strong liquid. She drank three cups of it. . . . She felt vitality surging back.

It was nice, she thought, to be a human being again—and not that other thing. Nice to have stopped feeling restless and miserable and driven. Nice to be able to stop walking about the streets unhappily, looking for something, and feeling irritable and impatient because, really, you didn't know what you were looking for! Now, thank goodness, there would be only hard work—and who minded hard work?

She put down the empty cup and got up and strolled back to Nausicaa. She looked at the face for some time, and slowly a little frown crept between her brows.

It wasn't—it wasn't quite—

What was it that was wrong?

Blind eyes.

Blind eyes that were more beautiful than any eyes that could see. . . . Blind eyes that tore at her heart because they were blind. . . . Had she got that or hadn't she?

She'd got it, yes—but she'd got something else as well. Something that she hadn't meant or thought about. . . . The structure was all right—very sure. But there didn't come from—that faint insidious suggestion?

The suggestion, somewhere, of a common, spiteful mind.

She hadn't been listening, not really listening. Yet, somehow, in through her ears and out at her fingers, it had worked its way into the clay.

And she wouldn't, she knew she wouldn't, be able to get it out again.

Henrietta turned away, sharply. Perhaps it was fancy. Yes, surely it was fancy. She would feel quite differently about it in the morning. She thought with dismay, how vulnerable one is.

She walked, frowning, up to the end of the studio. She stopped in front of her figure of The Worshiper.

THAT was all right—a lovely bit of pearwood graining just right. She'd saved it up for ages, hoarding it.

New Labor Law Analyzed - What It Means

By HAROLD W. WARD

WASHINGTON, June 30—(AP)—The key man under the new labor law is the general counsel of the national labor relations board (NLRB).

Gloomy unionists predict he'll be a labor czar. Congressmen who backed the law said they have no such fear.

Under the Wagner Act—the previous labor law which the new one changes in many ways—the big boss in labor-management affairs was the NLRB.

This was a three-man board which carried out the Wagner Act. This old board had a general counsel. He was really a servant of the board.

The board, in labor disputes, acted as investigator, prosecutor, judge and jury, all in one.

That great power of the board was one of the reasons the Wagner Act, passed in 1935, has received so much criticism all through the last 12 years.

But the new law makes big changes in the board and its powers.

The three-man board now becomes a five-man board, all members appointed by the president.

But much of its power is taken away.

The new law provides for a general counsel, too.

Unlike the general counsel under the Wagner Act, this one will have great power. He'll practically be independent of the NLRB.

He'll be NLRB's prosecuting arm. He can investigate charges of violations of the new law and issue complaints against unions and employers.

He'll decide whether to prosecute a union or employer before the board—which will set the judge—and his decision is final. There's no appeal.

The fields in which he'll operate are pretty much wide open and uncharted.

The law itself makes hardly more than passing reference to the job of general counsel.

It will take time to decide just how much power he has—or how much he may feel entitled to assume.

He'll have to be appointed by the president and then the Senate will have to confirm him. His salary: $12,000 a year.

The expanded board itself from now on will be a labor relations court, instead of prosecutor, jury and judge.

But, because the law does so many things and dips into so many fields of labor-management relations, the board becomes a major government agency.

Because of the powers and responsibilities given the new NLRB, the over-shadowed labor department shrinks to not much more than an agency for gathering statistics on things like wages, employment, and so on.

One of the most important parts of the governments big labor department was its conciliation service.

This service, made up of experts in labor-management relations, had the job of trying to help unions and employers settle disputes.

Swilley-Parrett Wedding Solemnized June 8

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Parrett

Miss Rose Janelle Swilley, daughter of Mr. E. R. Swilley of Meridian, Mississippi, became the bride of Leslie Loring Parrett, son of Thomas H. Parrett, and the late Mrs. Parrett, of Bloomington, in a beautiful and impressive ceremony Sunday afternoon, June eighth.

The double ring ceremony was solemnized at four o'clock, at the Fifteenth Avenue Baptist Church of Meridian with Dr. Paul G. Horner, pastor, officiating.

The church was attractively decorated with smilax and white flower baskets of gladioli. Tall tapers in candelabra were placed on either side of the altar.

The candles were lighted by Wallace Nichols of Chicago, Ill., and Dr. Tom Gover of Meridian.

The bride who entered with her father was very attractive in her southern antebellum bridal gown of mousseline de soie and lace, fashioned with a fitted bodice and long full sleeves with lace inserts. The full hoop skirt with wide bands of lace down the length, terminated into a train.

A finger-tip "Mary Queen of Scots" veil of illusion framed the bride's face. The bridal bouquet was formed of white orchids encircled with stephanotis.

The bridesmaids, Misses Alice Boutwell of Meridian, Tomie Lou Parrett, sister of the groom, and Jean Parrett of Greenfield, were dressed in pastel shades of mousseline de soie, featuring long bodices with off the shoulder necklines and bouffant skirts. They wore elbow length gloves matching their dresses and carried bouquets of iris and carnations in contrasting colors.

The maid of honor, Miss Juane Swilley, sister of the bride, wore a similar dress of pink and carried an arm bouquet of deep pink carnations.

Mr. Carey M. Parrett, brother of the groom, served as best man. The ushers were Mr. Richard Haxby and Mr. Wallace Nichols of Chicago, Ill., and Dr. Tom Gover of Meridian.

The nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Paul Horner, pianist, who accompanied Mrs. Nettie Brunster as she sang "My Heart At Thy Sweet Voice" and "At Dawning." "Clair de Lune" and "To A Wild Rose" were played softly during the exchange of vows. The traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and the recessional.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Guests were received by Mrs. Swilley, who was wearing a black floral print and a corsage of Better Times roses in her hair and Mrs. W. B. Boutwell, aunt of the bride, who chose an aqua dress with a corsage of pink rosebuds.

In the dining room, the table was laid with a white lace cloth and had for its centerpiece a three tiered wedding cake, which was encircled with baby's breath and greenery. Tall white tapers burned in crystal candelabra.

Misses Sue Rainer and Marjorie Woodside of Meridian assisted with the serving.

The bride and groom left for a honeymoon trip to Florida. For traveling, Mrs. Parrett wore a white Fred Block suit with a colored floral blouse. Her accessories were brown and white and she wore an orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Parrett will make their home in Columbus.

Eagles Lose, 7-5 at Chillicothe

Inability to cash in on their opportunities cost the Eagles a victory at Chillicothe when the Meads edged the Washington C. H. team 7 to 5 in a bang-up SCO League game Sunday afternoon.

Reds Break Even In Doubleheader

By JOE REICHLER
(By the Associated Press)

Detroit's tough luck Tigers are back in the running today mainly on account of Hal Newhouser's inexplicable jinx over the St. Louis Browns.

Prince Hal, the number one left-hander in the American League, handcuffed the Browns with his southpaw slants for the 15th straight time yesterday as the Tigers took hot heads of the doubleheader 7-5 and 6-1.

In winning their fourth straight at home, the injury-riddled Bengals climbed into a third place tie with the Philadelphia Athletics.

Paul (Dizzy) Trout hung up his seventh triumph in the nightcap before he retired in the sixth inning with a sore arm. Alton Benton finished for the Tigers and did not allow a hit in three innings.

Billy Southworth, astute manager for the Boston Braves, who changes lineups practically with the shifting of the winds, allowed only one player, Bob Elliott, to play his position through both games with the Philadelphia Phils.

And Elliott it was who drove in the winning run in the first game and who was the batting star of the second as the Braves beat the Phils twice 8-7 in 10 innings and 4-2.

Although Jackie Robinson enjoyed his best day as a major leaguer, the Dodgers could not get better than a split with the Giants before 52,147 fans at the Polo Grounds. Brooklyn won the first 4-3 and lost the second 9-5. Robby drove in the tying run on a ninth inning single in the opener and scored the winning run on Arky Vaughan's pinch single after he had stolen second. The Negro flash got four hits in five times at bat in the second game to extend his hitting streak to 18 consecutive games.

Cincinnati and St. Louis split a twin bill, the Reds winning the opener 9-7 after piling up an 8-1 lead, and the Cards coming back to bury Cincinnati 17-2 in the second game. The teams banded a total of 44 hits in the two games, which saw Enos Slaughter, the Cards' star left fielder, drive in 10 runs seven in the second game.

Boston Fandom, overjoyed at the Braves climb into first place in the National, was somewhat sobered by the Red Sox' double setback at the hands of the Athletics 3-2 and 6-5. Ted Williams banged his 13th four bagger for the Red Sox in the finale.

Four Chicago White Sox hurlers held the Cleveland Indians to four hits to register a 4-3 victory in the opener by a scheduled doubleheader. The second game was postponed by rain.

The Yankees and Senators split a doubleheader in Washington, the Nats winning the opener 5-1 as the Yankees taking the second game 3-1.

Rose Avenue Boys Lead Knotholers

The boys of the Rose Avenue softball team of the Senior Knothole League were at the top of the ratings by the narrow margin of one point after two complete rounds of play, the standing released by Fred Pierson, the recreation supervisor, showed the four teams in these positions:

Rose Avenue 155; Cherry Hill 154; Sunnyside 150 and Eastside 135.

In the Knothole League, which is made of boys in the city's elementary schools, winning the game is not so important as how it is played.

Ten points are awarded for attendance, 10 points for conduct, only 7 points for winning and the loser gets 3 points.

Fayette County's other league member was taking a 3 to 1 decision from the Athletics of Greenfield. The Cubs, held to five hits in a pitchers' battle, scored all of their runs in the fourth inning.

Amato, the newcomer to the Jeffersonville lineup, was even more effective than Wilson. He limited Pappy Doyle's boys to three singles that were so well scattered that they could make them count for but a single run in spite of five errors by his mates.

Ashtabula's Reds continued to lead the league today after having administered a 9 to 5 defeat to Lancaster's Glasmen and Grove City's revitalized Dodgers, handed the Jamestown Lions a 12 to 9 beating in most rambunctious game of the day around the circuit.

Legion Edged Out By Elks at Xenia

Two runs in the first inning and one in the last gave the Xenia Elks a 3 to 2 victory of the Hughes Legion post's softball outfit at Washington C. H. at Xenia Sunday afternoon.

This was the team that was to have come here for Friday night's double feature curtain raiser.

The teams were about as evenly balanced as two teams could be and the outcome of the game was in doubt until the very last when the Xenians put over the winning run. Each got five hits and each made but two errors in the tussle that was marked by fast and accurate defensive play.

Witherspoon and Warner each got two of the Legion's five hits. Cronk, the pitcher, got the other.

Legion Juniors Beat Greenfield

The Legion Juniors of Washington C. H. swamped the Juniors from Greenfield, 14 to 1, at Wilson Field Sunday afternoon in a one-sided game.

Coleman, a colored boy who was a flash in the field as well as a consistent batter, scored the Greenfielders' only run with a circuit clout over the left field fence.

Denner and Parrett hit home runs for the Washington C. H. boys.

Beaches as Sydney, Australia, have recorded an annual total of 19 million visitors.

Lefty Wackman, the hard luck guy of the Eagle pitching staff, held the Meads to 9 hits while his mates were collecting 11 off Brown and Bartlett.

The Eagles started off with a bang, scoring three runs in the first inning and one in the second. Two runs by the Meads in each of the third and fourth stanzas tied the game up and threw it into a subsequent see-saw affair until the Meads pushed over the two winning tallies in the eighth.

It was a big day for play in the field, for only three batters struck out and only five got on base with free tickets.

Band Practice Tuesday to Get Ready for Fair

Sparkling New Drums Now on Display at Summers' Store

With emphasis on rehearsals for the music to be used at the Fair here the last week of July, another regular summer practice session has been called for both the junior band and the big WHS band for Tuesday evening by William Clift, the bandmaster.

The junior band, made up of boys and girls in the lower grades who are getting a start to move into the WHS band later, is to meet in the Little Theater of the high school at 6:30 P. M.

The WHS band is to start its practice at 7:30 P. M.

Because of the close timing for the rehearsals, they both will start and end promptly on schedule.

The first of the new instruments bought with some of the money raised by the "Mile of Nickles" are in—six small drums and a big bass drum, a flute, a big bass horn and a baritone horn.

A dozen new uniforms, that will cost approximately $50 to $60 apiece complete, will be needed when the enlarged band takes the field next fall. They are to be ordered as soon as the "shopping" for them is completed. Repairs also are to be made on some of the instruments owned by the band.

The new drums are on display in the W. E. Summers Music Store window. They are veneered with white pearl that will sparkle under the lights.

The WHS band this year will share with the new All-County band the assignment of providing music for the Fair this year. The schedule has been definitely set yet, but the WHS band is expected to play on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons. The bandstand is not big enough to accommodate the entire band; so as in the past, only part of it will be used each day.

Eight Cub Scouts were presented with patches, stripes, books and other awards at a picnic held Sunday at Washington park by members of pack 13 and their parents when W. E. Parkinson, Cub Scout Field executive from Columbus, presented awards.

Mrs. Homer Bireley was awarded a den mother's pin and a den mother's certificate.

Following the presentations, a fried chicken dinner was served.

Six From Here Attend Aerial Races at Newark

Over 250 Planes at Ohio Dawn Patrol Event Sunday

Six people from this community attended the Newark Air Races Sunday, which were held for members of the Ohio Dawn Patrol, when over 250 planes from the midwest flew there for the show.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bower accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Ray French in the French's Stinson 150. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Berryhill of New Vienna flew to Newark in their Aeronca Champion. Since the competitions were open only to members of the Dawn Patrol, none of the people from here entered the events.

The show lasted from 9 A. M. to 1 P. M. and was restricted to factory-built private planes. There were pylon races, a cross-country race from Newark to Zanesville, a bomb-dropping contest and spot-landing contests.

Prizes were also given for the oldest pilot at the meet, the pilot who came the longest distance, the earliest arrival and the pilot who arrived at the secret time. The prize for the earliest arrival was split three ways among three pilots who arrived at 12:01 A. M. the day of the meet.

French said the flight to Newark took him about 28 minutes going and 35 minutes returning.

Simon L. Leis Member Liquor Control Board

Assistant Prosecutor In Collett Case Is Appointed

Simon L. Leis, 50, Cincinnati attorney, who was special prosecutor during the James W. Collett triple murder trial here three years ago, has been appointed by Governor Thomas J. Herbert as a member of the Ohio Board of Liquor Control to succeed William B. Hess of Cincinnati, who died several weeks ago.

Leis, who was recommended by the Hamilton County organization, will take office Tuesday.

Leis attained state-wide recognition when, as a special prosecutor during Governor Herbert's regime as attorney general, he cleared up gambling in Youngstown and closed Ohio's dog racing tracks.

He has been unusually successful in many noted criminal cases in addition to the Collett case here, and few weeks ago completed the successful prosecution of Jerome Nevis, Clark County prosecuting attorney, in connection with the gambling racket in Clark County.

Leis is expected to make an energetic board member, and do much toward bringing about enforcement of the liquor laws in Ohio.

Some Farm Land Will Be Unbroken

Present indications are that many fields in Fayette County will remain unbroken this year, due to the wet weather which prevented plowing at the usual time, and also prevented planting corn until one of the latest dates on record.

The corn land that was to have been broken is producing a heavy crop of weeds.
